the Keck-Gonnerman Thresher

... for 75 years the Farmer's Dependable Friend!

Almost four decades of experience in building dependable equipment for farmers has been put into the construction of the new Keck-Gonnerman Thresher... with the result that this thresher has exclusive construction features which are readily appreciated by the experienced farmer.

Study These Exclusive Advantages:

- 12 foot feeder carriers that are adjustable to any desired height from 36" to 74" merely by turning an adjusting crank.
- Feeder governed by fly-ball speed governor and volume control governor.
- All necessary adjustments for good threshing can be made while machine is in operation.
- Furnished with 12 bar cylinders on 28x48 and smaller machines and 15 bar cylinders on 28x50 and larger machines.
- Cylinder and blower shaft mounted on double row, self-aligning ball bearings.
- Equipped with 2 beaters for more efficient operation.
- Adjustable traveling rake chain back of cylinder elevates straw over separating grate and helps to distribute straw evenly onto racks. The rake chain added to the large concave and grate area gives the Keck-Gonnerman thresher the largest separating area of any machine on the market.
- Straw racks are divided and are evenly balanced, practically eliminating vibration of the machine.
- Six rows of steel lifting fingers operate up and down 215 times per minute while the rack moves back and forth at the same speed. The fingers toss the straw upward, tear it apart, and shake out any remaining grain.
- Heavily constructed channel and angle-iron frame put together with hot rivets. Frame will remain rigid after years of use.
- Blower shaft equipped with bull horns placed in position to auger and force a steady stream of straw into the blower. Practically impossible to choke blower.
- Full width door in rear permits sieves to be changed with minimum of time and effort.
- Heavy galvanized sheet-steel construction. Water- and weather-tight decks.
- The Kay-Gee weigher elevator is of belt and bucket construction.

Government May Not Disband Edmonton Radio Station CKUA

Long-awaited decision on the fate of radio station CKUA, Alberta's non-commercial, government-controlled broadcasting unit, may soon reveal that the government will continue to operate the station, rather than disbanding it, as were the original intentions.

This was seen in the recent appointment of John Langdon to the management of the station, as the government had previously stated it would not name a successor to former manager Walter Blake until the future of CKUA had definitely been decided.

Mr. Langdon was production manager during Mr. Blake's tenure. The latter is now associated with the Alberta Motor Association.

Radio station CKUA is unique in Canada, in that it is the only non-commercial broadcasting unit in the nation.

Originally directed and licensed by the University of Alberta, on November 4, 1927, as a small cultural unit, CKUA has grown as a cultural medium through which Alberta has gained much prestige.

Offices of the station in 1945 were transferred to the Provincial Building, in downtown Edmonton, when the University, unable to keep up with the station's expansion, turned its supervision over to the Department of Public Works. Subsequently the Telephone Dept., under Communications took over the operation of the station.

A controversy arose early this year over operation of the station, when the government announced its intention of disbanding the unit, stating the station was too expensive to operate.

However, an avalanche of mail and protests from numerous organizations soon poured into the government, and the idea of selling was shelved.

Annual upkeep of the radio unit has been about $57,000.00. Among the services CKUA offers to the province include thousands of dollars in free broadcasting time for various charitable and service organizations, a wide variety of cultural programs, extensive list of educational broadcasts, adequate religious programs, and a complete sports and news service.

However, as the station has been operated on a non-commercial basis, revenue has been nil. But authorities estimate that CKUA could be a profitable public enterprise were it to be operated on a commercial basis.

Station employs 16 people, including the manager, six announcers, two continuity writers, four news writers, an engineer, and two stenographers.

Radio station CKUA has become an integral part of Alberta, and if the government has definitely decided to continue its operations, as signs currently indicate, the decision will probably meet with widespread public approval.

Pastor Pays Tribute To Weekly Papers

Commenting on the weekly newspaper, the following words of appreciation came from a clergyman whose life has been spent in rural church fields.

"I should hate to be pastor of a church in a town where there is no local paper. I don't know how I would get along in the minister's efforts to serve the town he finds in the local paper a good ally. The paper will print columns about local conditions and local objectives. It will print letters of protest or approval. It keeps track of what needs to be done."

Better Crop Outlook

Last year, owing to considerably less than normal rainfall, the outlook for the prairie crop until the middle of July was poor indeed. From the middle of July, however, better than average rains began to fall and final yields to the acre for wheat turned out to be 12.9 bushels to the acre compared with the longtime average of 16.5. This year much the same poor rainfall condition prevailed until the last week in June. Then once again as in 1949, better than average rains began to fall and a steady improvement each week has taken place to this date. The outlook for Manitoba is for better than an average yield to the acre, for Saskatchewan close to an average yield and in Alberta each day more and more rains are falling so that the final outcome may be better than some expect.

Buying Rush Creates Artificial Scarcity

The fighting in Korea and a somewhat widespread belief that it may be the preliminary skirmish of a titanic clash between the United States and Russia have led many Americans into something like a buying spree.

Already there is some indication of a tendency on the part of consumers to buy goods in unusual quantities as a safeguard against the possible effects of another war. Dealers in some lines, including automobiles, have experienced something of a rush by anxious buyers who are afraid that unless they buy at once they will not be able to get what they want.

It is obvious of course, that this buying rush tends to create the very scarcity which people fear.

There is talk in Canada of panic buying and hoarding, too. But as Government officials have pointed out, with half-a-billion dollars of extra production power still unused, this is not only unnecessary but also very foolish.

Europeans Favor Union

Seeking to discover the attitude of the peoples of the various European countries in regard to a proposed European union, a fact-finding organization recently questioned a selected sample of people in much the same manner that the Gallup Poll works in this country.

It was discovered that a majority of those questioned in Norway, Holland, Germany, Italy and France favored the union. No poll was taken in Great Britain or Belgium because, at the time, they were involved in national elections which tended toward confusion.

It is worth noting that the highest percentage of those thinking the union would be bad were in France, with twelve per cent. There were, in the countries questioned, from twenty-five to forty-three per cent of the population.

A union of the free nations of Europe has long been advocated by Winston Churchill. He sees in such a federation the opportunity for developing free trade in an area with a population that, in time, might rival the economic growth of the United States. If this can be brought about, it goes without saying that the ability of the people involved to defend themselves against aggression will be immensely enhanced.

Everything Is Copacetic In Oklahoma

By T. W. PUE

Ever since "People will say we're in love," "O what a beautiful morning" and "Everything's up-to-date in Kansas City" became hits in the music world I've heard the musical score of "Oklahoma" many times on record and radio.

I'm glad that I have now seen these pieces actually played before my very eyes and sung by lovely Ruth Gillis and her stage companion, Pat James. The occasion was the fifth Edmonton "Pops" Concert, the time Thursday evening, August 10. The place: a cattle barn in Edmonton.

Now, mind you, I don't object to cattle barns, particularly the kind where you can sit high above the arena and look down on the bovine parade. It makes you feel kind of good inside, to watch Lee Hepner conduct the big orchestra in the Exhibition Sales Pavilion, thrill to the playing of your favorite music and say to yourself "Bet, there isn't another City in Canada where you can hear this kind of concert in a cow shed."

Which just goes to show how proud you can get, living in a city of nearly 150,000 population with no Auditorium.

Oklahoma Is Good

When it comes to music, I'm no qualified critic. Like most people, I suppose, I have no fancy reasons for liking certain music, and not liking others. I can't play a note myself. But I've noticed that successful musical scores are meant to be only happy or sentimental, with no great world-shaking message to deliver to an expectant world. That is why OKLAHOMA was and is such a success—it tells about the happy people on a beautiful morning, having a wonderful time—just living. Everything is copacetic—just fine in Oklahoma, and it makes me feel good just to hear it every time it's sung.

Vernon Barford

I could finish this week's stint by telling you the life story of Rogers, Hart and Hammerstein but I won't. Those fellows got plenty of publicity anyway. I want to tell you about an Edmonton Composer, who wrote a fine piece, "May-Day Suite," which we heard at the concert.

Vernon Barford's "May-Day" suite for orchestra was written during the winter of 1921-22 and first played at a Women's Musical Club Recital of works by "local composers," the orchestra being The University Orchestra which Mr. Barford was, at that time, conducting; a few months later, it was performed at some special concert by The Edmonton Symphony Orchestra. It had to wait for nearly thirty years for another hearing, the Edmonton Philharmonic Orchestra including it in one of their last season's programs. The suite, which is scored for full orchestra, consists of four numbers; opening with a Processional March suggesting a gaily-dressed company of knights with their ladies riding down the road from the near-by castle to witness the May-Day revels of the Country folk, is followed by a Gayotte (whatever that is) and a Love Song, the former typifying the fair haired May Queen, the latter her boy lover. The closing number, "Round the Maypole" is a typical English Country dance. Mr. Hepner and his orchestra played the Love Song and May-pole dance.

It made me feel good to see a local man, Vernon Barford, Composer, receive recognition at the Pops Concert.

Scriptural Meditations

By AINSLEY BLAIR

"If we take counsel with our doubts and fears, or try to solve everything that we cannot see clearly, before we have faith, perplexities will only increase and deepen. But if we come to God, feeling helpless and dependent, as we really are, and in humble, trusting faith make known our wants to him whose knowledge is infinite, who sees everything in creation, and who governs everything by his will and word, he can and will attend to our cry, and will let light shine into our hearts."

Through sincere prayer we are brought into connection with the mind of the Infinite. We may have no remarkable evidence at the time that the face of our Redeemer is bending over us in compassion and love; but this is even so.

We may not feel his visible touch, but his hand is upon us in love and pitying tenderness."

Dear Sir—May I make my comments on a letter written to your paper by a woman whose husband had deserted her, and who urged that all such men be drafted into the army? ## Murdered Yanks

From Newsweek

"This is not killed in action. I call it murder."

The American photographer who thus reported to GHQ in Tokyo last week had pictorial proof of what Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique called "barbarians of war by North Korean troops." His photos showed four dead infantrymen, all with their hands tied behind their backs, all shot through the head. Those were not the only such atrocities.

Two GI's whose jeep was surrounded put up their hands. Their captors ripped off their helmets and shot them through the back of the head.

The Northerners tied ropes to a Korean woman's legs, tied one rope to a tree and one to a jeep, and pulled her apart.

Southern policemen drove two truckloads of prisoners to a grove rifle butts, explaining: "Guerrillas we bang-bang in the woods."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON:

John the Baptist Set Stage for Coming of Christ

John the Baptist, after a solitary life of preparation, during which time he had ample opportunity to meditate and think and develop his powers of communication with God, suddenly appeared to the Jewish people with startling effect.

"Men were conscious that a new power had appeared among them," says Professor A. B. Davidson. "The soft livers in the cities wondered at the unkempt shaggy figure whose trumpet tones shook them."

Thus, about twenty-six A.D., or as Luke says, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius, John began his public career as activity lasted but two years. That of Jesus was only three. How much can be accomplished in a short time if great spiritual force is behind the man and the message!

During his hermit life, John became acquainted with the cruelty and wickedness of society and witnessed the misery and affliction of the poor. Going farther in his consideration of these things, he realized that these things were the cause of sin and he was impelled by divine power to deliver a message of condemnation and warning to those who were heedlessly drifting through life.

Jesus, himself paid high tribute to John the Baptist, saying that none were born of woman greater than he, yet adding to this the declaration that the last Christian would be greater, meaning in faith, privilege and insight. However, John the Baptist is not to be neglected nor his message disregarded.

Before anyone can come to know the greater blessings of the Christian faith he must pursue the nativity followed by John and pass through penitential experiences. John the Baptist travelled the only spiritual road open to him at that time and went until the road ended. Jesus was the engineer who constructed a further highway for you and me to use in our progress towards the Kingdom of God.

John's methods as a preacher were not such as would recommend themselves to the modern church pastor today. He was no purveyor of soft and silken phrases but stern in his frankness and uncompromising in his denunciation. One group, who approached him, he addressed as 'vipers,' his harsh severity being justified by their hypocrisy and insincerity.

We can't imagine a congregation hearing the Baptist preach and then smilingly walk out in conversation with their fellows: "Wasn't it a beautiful sermon?" Instead, his audiences were stirred to conviction of sin because he had the honesty and courage to frankly expose their souls to themselves. Hearing him, men and women wanted to know what they must do.

The line dividing the preacher from the social reformer hardly exists if the preacher believes that religion concerns present generalities of Christian virtues when glaring examples of sin and passion sit in the congregation familiar and known to many?

John, in his evangelism, never hesitated to put his finger on the weak spot and prescribe the medicine necessary to effect a cure. "Divide your coats and food with the poor," he said. Publicans were told to discontinue gouging the public for selfish gain; and soldiers were rebuked for their rowdiness, extortion and blackmailing of defenseless civilians.

Notwithstanding the vigor of his denunciation of wickedness and the perfect assurance which he had for righteous principles, John realized his own position in regard to the expected Messiah. He had no pride or false conceit when he spoke of the One who would follow him. The Sanhedrin could ask him if he was the Messiah, the crowds could throng around him to hear his message, but John made no pretense to be anything except one who made ready the way for the King to come.

While he baptized with water, John said, one would soon come who would baptize with the spirit and with fire. While John brought about conviction in the souls of men and awakened an admission of personal sin, he could not give the satisfaction and the answer to the cravings of mankind that would only be provided through faith in Jesus Christ.

Power Line Break Said Caused By Fallen Tree

Last week there was a break in Canadian Utilities Limited main transmission lines from their plant at Vermilion to Lloydminster, at a point just a little east of Kitscoty. This caused a severe interruption in service in the territory between these points and also to the north in the Clandonald area. Most seriously affected was Lloydminster, as the town, its refineries and the adjacent oil field were without electric energy for about two hours.

Officials of Canadian Utilities state that the lines break was the result of careless land clearing operations in which a tree about ten inches in diameter was allowed to fall on the power lines and that this was something that never would have happened had normal precautions been taken.

Apart altogether from the inconvenience and the monetary loss such a breakdown occasions their customers, the Company was much more concerned about the continuation of such dangerous practices which, in this instance, could easily have cost the life of the man involved. If trees close to transmission lines must be removed, the proper course to follow is to advise the Company or any of its employees. This advice to the Company, following its usual practice, will send a representative to supervise the removal without cost to the farmer, without danger to anyone, and with no interruption of service.

Letter to Louisa

Goes With Girl Five Years, But No Mention of Marriage

Dear Louisa:—

I have been going with a man for five years. We have good times together and I am very much in love with him.

But he never says a word about getting married. In fact, he always side-steps the question if any mention of it is made.

My sister says I am awfully foolish to spend all my time with this man and that some day he will see someone he likes better than me and I will be left alone. I can't believe that he would do such a thing, for he doesn't go with anyone but me. And yet I know that he is financially able to get married if he wished to do so.

What must I do?

"TWENTY-FIVE"

Answer:

I am inclined to agree with your sister that you are wasting your time and probably throwing away opportunities for making a good marriage. If this man has been going with you for five years and is still side-stepping the subject of marriage, your best bet will be to tell him good-bye and look around a bit.

It may be that he is so sure of you that he feels it is not necessary to take on any burdens while he can enjoy your mothers cooking and have you always at hand to go places and keep him amused. If he is really in love with you he will realize it in a hurry if you speak up with him and explain to him why you are doing so.

It is very selfish of a boy to monopolize a girl's time when he has no idea of marrying her. By doing so, everyone gets the idea that she is "his girl" and no one else will try to date her.

But then most people are selfish and if a girl doesn't look out for her own interests to a certain extent, she has no one to blame but herself when the boy friend, who has taken the ten best years of her life, goes skipping off to the altar with some young thing who has no idea of throwing away her matrimonial chances by steadying with any man too long.

INCREASES EXPECTED IN ALBERTA CROPS THIS YEAR

A big increase in total production of wheat, oats, barley, flax and rye is indicated for the prairie provinces this year, the first crop forecast published by the Searle Grain Company reveals.

Harry McDonald, Pool Superintendent, Enters Retirement

Harry L. McDonald, divisional superintendent of Alberta Pool Elevators, retired at the end of July after being in the service of the organization for 24 years. On Thursday, July 27, the senior officials of the Alberta Wheat Pool held a dinner in honor of Mr. McDonald and presented him with a fitted picnic hamper and also a travelling case.

On behalf of the elevator agents and travelling superintendents of "C" Division, of which Mr. McDonald had been superintendent since 1928, Ralph Armstrong made the presentation of a gold watch and a gold mounted fountain pen.

R. D. Purdy, manager of the Alberta Wheat Pool, was chairman and referred to the long and faithful service given by Mr. McDonald. Ben S. Plumer, T. E. Oliver and J. H. Turner also spoke appreciatively of the work Mr. McDonald has done for Pool Elevators. In reply Mr. McDonald said he had enjoyed his years with the organization and the fellowship of the other employees.

Wheat is expected to reach a total yield of 484,000,000 bushels. Other figures are Oats, 272,000,000; barley, 171,000,000; flax, 5,000,000; and rye, 16,000,000.

The report points out that the crop is two weeks late and that there is the danger of damage from frost before harvest. Leaf rust is said to be prevalent and, according to the report, "an apparent new race of stem rust may damage much of the wheat."

Little seems to be known of this new stem rust, and many Alberta agents report they have seen no signs of its appearance.

As an indication of how the 1950 crop gives promise of exceeding that for 1949, figures given in the same company's crop production analysis for the end of October, 1949, are: Wheat, 332,900,000; oats, 189,000,000; barley, 106,000,000; flax, 2,350,000; rye, 10,800,000.

VERMILION FAIR SUMMER CAMP REPORTED FINEST IN CANADA

An official of the Dominion Department of Agriculture who attended Vermilion Fair for the entire three days and who, during his visit in Vermilion, was a guest at the Provincial School of Agriculture, expressed the opinion that the Summer Camp for boys and girls held at the School of Agriculture under the joint sponsorship of the Vermilion Agricultural Society, the Provincial and Federal Departments of Agriculture, was the outstanding such event in all Canada.

Doubtless the magnificent facilities offered by the Provincial School of Agriculture and the enthusiasm with which this annual camp is welcomed by the District people are the main reasons for this unusual success.

Annually some 125 young people from the farms of northern Alberta gather at the school several days prior to the opening of the annual exhibition and the girls take a practical course in household science and home nursing while the boys are given an insight into practical farm methods of handling livestock, field crops and the mechanics of the farm and home. Instructors are provided by the Provincial Department of Agriculture and are mainly drawn from the staff of the School, engaged, during the summer months in extension work of various kinds. The young people come from a wide area in the Province of Alberta and are permitted to attend two such camps only; this latter regulation makes it possible for the benefits of the summer short courses to be extended to the largest number of families.

Splendid co-operation is given to the summer camp by such organizations as the Alberta Wheat Pool, the Line Elevators Association and the T. Eaton Company of Winnipeg, Man. The Albert's mitted to attend two such camps only; this latter regulation makes it possible for the benefits of the summer short courses to be extended to the largest number of families.

TOWN PLANNER NOEL DANT LAUDS MIRACLE MILE FOR EDMONTON

Edmonton's Market Square is a pig-sty, and the Detwiler project would be a tremendous asset to Edmonton, in the opinion of Town Planner Noel Dant, charged with responsibility for planning the development of the city.

Mr. Dant told the Board of Public Utility Commissioners hearing the city's application for approval of the $28,000,000 civic centre project that the scheme is definitely in the city's best interests.

When he was sworn as a witness City Solicitor Tom Garside drew from Mr. Dant statements of his university training and town planning experience, which showed him to be fully qualified through university degrees in both the U.K. and United States, as well as having many years' experience as a town planner in several areas of southeast Asia, Europe, the U.K., United States and Canada, to pass professional judgement on the Detwiler scheme.

Lack of Space

The project, by grouping shopping, commercial, professional and parking facilities, will provide the centralizing influence needed to prevent dereliction and decay in the downtown area, he said.

Unchecked decentralization in cities leads to reduced assessments, and there must be some re-centralization force to counteract it. The Detwiler scheme would provide that for Edmonton, said Mr. Dant.

Parking facilities in downtown areas are "criminally lacking," and the plan would materially aid in solving the problem.

Just a Pig Sty

The area between 101A and 104 avenues, from 99 to 100 streets, is a "very unsuitable" one for the town planning aspect, he said, and as such highly undesirable.

The market square itself is "quite frankly a pig sty," and the Detwiler plan of development should stabilize not only the area itself, but surrounding areas.

Asked by City Solicitor Tom Garside if it might be a good idea to carry out a suggestion advanced by opponents of the scheme, to sell separate parcels of land on the City Centre for individual developments, Mr. Dant replied:

"I think it would be extremely bad."

Largest Continent

The continent of Asia contains about one-third of the whole of the dry land, and one-twelfth part of the whole surface of the globe.

These two Lethbridge district youngsters have good reasons to be beaming with pride. Members of the popular junior calf clubs, Max Holt of Raymond, and Julia Kotasek of Lethbridge, are seen

The most modern freight yard in North America, the Canadian Pacific Railway's new $12,000,000 St. Luc freight terminal at Montreal, was officially opened last week. Minister of Transport, the Hon. Lionel Chevrier, K.C., (right of inset), is seen as he inspects the controls for the yard with N. H. Crump (left), vice-president, Canadian Pacific Railway, and J. O. Assella (centre), president, executive council, City of Montreal. Switching in the yards is electrically controlled.

Students taking the special training given by the RCAF's school of survival at Fort Nelson, north-eastern B.C., and Cambridge Bay, in the Arctic, learn northland survival techniques the hard way. They live in the open during the three-week course, and sleep in bush shelters or igloos they build themselves. Purpose is to teach airmen how to look after themselves in the northland, in case their planes are ever forced down.

A Raincoat Becomes Shoulder Bag

Long famous for the quality of her textiles, Britain is now exploring new ways in which to use them. Here is an idea from Telemae, a London raincoat manufacturer, of how to get rid of your raincoat when the sun shines.

Left: Girl ready for the rain. Below: The same girl ready for the sunshine: the raincoat has been folded into the shoulder bag made from the pocket worn on the belt of the raincoat. Pocket, or shoulder bag, and light coat are made from a fine water-proofed cotton.

On a tour of the prairie provinces, Prime Minister St. Laurent was made a chief of the Plains Indians at Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask. The ceremony included the fitting of an eagle-feather headdress as shown here and the conferring of a title: 'Chief Wise Leader'.
